ABOUT US

We build belonging by empowering newcomers, marginalized families and individuals to contribute to their communities. Through mentorship, accessible programs, and community-driven support, we create spaces where people feel valued, connected, and inspired to make a difference.

IT STARTED WITH A SOCCER BALL

Jean Claude's journey with Umoja Community Mosaic began in 2010 in the Glenbrook SW public housing neighborhood with a simple soccer ball. In a community where safety was a concern and many faced barriers, he used soccer to bring children and families together, creating a space for connection and teamwork.

What started as a game quickly grew into a movement, as Jean Claude saw the power of sport to foster belonging and empower individuals. From that small act, Umoja blossomed into a community-driven initiative focused on service, inclusion, and leadership.

TESTIMONIALS

"Umoja brought people together across neighbourhoods, cultures, and backgrounds. It turned strangers into mentors, teammates into brothers and sisters, and community into home."

"Jean-Claude didn't just found Umoja. He lives it. He has mentored, guided, and supported us not just as participants, but as people."
